

History 1003 Computer-Based Testing (CBT) Quizzes Fall 2019

These multiple choice quizzes count for 230 of your 900 course points. Make-ups are allowed in the case of excused absences (see the Attendance Policy on the syllabus).

The Revel platform of Levack et. al. (our textbook) quizzes you on each major section of the reading. Taking these self-assessments will help prepare you for the CBT quizzes. Note that you do not receive points for these Revel assessments—they are study aids.

All quizzes are administered by and taken at the LSU Computer-Based Testing (CBT) Center in Himes Hall.

- You must register with the Center to reserve quiz times:
- Go to www.cae.lsu.edu; click on "Computer Based Test Scheduling".

Computer-Based Testing Center Rules:
<ul style="list-style-type: none">--You must bring your student ID with you to the quiz.--No cell phones allowed.--You will be allowed to check in for your quiz beginning 15 minutes prior to your appointment time.--You will be allowed to check in up to 15 minutes after your appointment time.--Students who attempt to check in for an exam outside of this 30-minute "window" will be instructed to reschedule their exams. If space is not available for you to reschedule, you must contact Prof. Veldman.--The entrance doors to the testing lab will be locked 15 minutes after the last testing time of the day. Any students attempting to check in after the doors have been locked will be instructed to reschedule their exams.

- To prepare for the quizzes, you should study the relevant sections in Levack et.al. (assignments are detailed on the syllabus).
- The quizzes cover the readings and the maps specified below. They do not directly cover the lecture material (which will be tested on the essay exams).
- To find the assigned maps, go to our course site in Revel, click on Table of Contents (book icon on far left), scroll down to Key Features (after Ch. 29), click on it, click on Map List, click on the map that you want.

Quiz 1. Testing window: 9/9-9/10

This quiz covers:

- "What is the West" essay
- Assigned readings from The West, Chs. 15-19: only the sections assigned on the syllabus between 8/28 and 9/9
- Map 18.2: The War of the Austrian Succession, 1740-1748:

NOTE: We are using this map as "Europe in the mid-18th C." In other words, you do not need to know who allied with Austria and Prussia during the War of Austrian Succession—we're not doing the war.

To make sense of this map, you need to spend a little time. Be able to identify the states (those are the ones in CAPITAL LETTERS) and the labeled bodies of water. In addition, you will want (and need) to note:

- The immense size of Poland: Poland was one of the largest states in Europe in the middle of the 16th century
- The wide reach of "Austria" (also called the Austrian-Hungarian Empire and the Habsburg Empire): Click on "Austria and Its Possessions"—note that the Austrian Empire embraced not only what was then the Kingdom of Austria but also the Kingdom of Hungary, many small German states, parts of the northern Italian peninsula, and what was called the Austrian Netherlands (now Belgium)
- The part of the map called the German States is simplifying a very complex jigsaw puzzle of over 200 different kingdoms--there was not yet a political state called Germany!
- One of these German states was Prussia, which was vastly expanding in power in this period. Click on "Prussia," and click on "Territory ceded to Prussia by Austria in 1742." You don't have to know about 1742, but you should know that Silesia became part of Prussia.
- Maps 18.1: European Empires in 1763 and Map 18.4: The Atlantic Economy in the Mid-18th C. These maps won't be on the quiz as maps, but use them to answer these questions--
 - Who were the "metropolitan" (colonial/imperialist) powers?
 - Where were the colonized regions?
 - How did the "triangular trade" work? Who traded what for what?

REMEMBER: To find the assigned maps, go to our course site in Revel, click on Table of Contents (book icon on far left), scroll down to Key Features (after Ch. 29), click on it, click on Map List, click on the map that you want.

Quiz 2. Testing window: 9/18-9/19
